2019 Langhorne Creek Wine Show

Meet Our Judges

Shanteh Wong, Associate Judge

Shanteh Wong is Head Sommelier at Quay Restaurant in Sydney, Gourmet Traveller's Restaurant of the year in 2018.

Finishing in the top 10 Australian candidates in her Court of Master Sommeliers exam in 2013, she went on to compete in the 2014 Electrolux Young Waiter of the Year Competition, placing in the top 3. Shanteh is a Sommeliers Australia NSW committee member, and 2019 will see her pursuing continual study and further development in wine show judging.

Leon Talamini, Associate Judge

Leon moved from the rum soaked streets of his native Queensland to Adelaide in 2009 where he studied Viticulture & Oenology at the University of Adelaide, graduating in 2012. During his studies he completed a Vintage at Pikes Wines in the Clare Valley and returned in 2013, taking up the position of Assistant winemaker later that year. His time at Pikes led to an increasingly expensive obsession with Riesling which was further cemented by a stint at Weingut Petri in the Pfalz in 2014. Seeking new challenges and fewer hills he took up a position as winemaker at Project Wine in late 2016 where he remains today.

Robert Cragg, Associate Judge

Robert Cragg was first involved in the periphery of the wine industry in 2005, when he had the task of pruning and grafting grape vines on his family property, making his first wine from those vines. He moved on to be a cellar hand at Southern Highlands Wines in Moss Vale, was appointed assistant winemaker, but almost immediately moved to the Hunter Valley in 2012. After two years he was offered a job in McLaren Vale, where he now works full-time as an assistant winemaker at Boar's Rock. Robert completed a Bachelor of Wine Science at Charles Sturt University and this will be his first associate judging position.
